

PortlandTribune

Breakside Brewery announces third location

Created on Monday, 23 November 2015 09:17 | Written by Jennifer Anderson |

0 Comments

New brewpub set for Northwest Portland next summer

Craft beer lovers can rejoice at yet another brewery opening in Portland.

This time it's a third location for Breakside Brewery, set to open in Northwest Portland early next summer.

"We are really excited about this new project and to be a part of what's developing in Northwest," says Breakside president Scott Lawrence. "This next evolution for Breakside will give us the opportunity to get even more creative and effective with our beers, and have a glittering premier location we can share with more friends in Portland."

The Block 296 Project, which includes Breakside's new location at the corner of Northwest 22nd Avenue and Raleigh Street, is a mixed-use project designed as an anchor development in Northwest Portland's Slabtown District.

The developers are Cairn Pacific LLC and Capstone Partners, and local design firm Green Gables will create the new space.

Next door is the new, recently opened New Seasons Marketplace.

The Block 296 Project is the first underway in the Con-way property, targeted to become one of Portland's next greenest neighborhoods.

The new 5,000-square-foot Breakside brewpub will produce new beers, since in the past two years the brewery has produced more than 100 different beers each year.

They'll add another pub-sized system and brewer, and have more details to come on their production.

The new brewpub will create about 75 new jobs, include an outdoor patio and mezzanine with flexible meeting and entertaining space.

Breakside launched in Portland in 2010 in Northeast Portland's Woodlawn neighborhood. In 2013 they opened a 3000l production facility and tasting room in Milwaukie.

Their beers have won multiple prestigious awards, including the Gold Medal in American-style IPA at the 2014 Great American Beer Festival, named Best Brewery in Oregon by Thrillist, Best Beer (IPA) by The Oregonian, Top 25 Beers of the Year by Draft Magazine, Top 100 by Men's Journal and claimed multiple medals at the World Beer Cup, North American Beer Awards and the Great American Beer Festival.

Breakside expects to produce 15,000 barrels in 2015.

For more, check out Breakside's new video produced by Clackamas County at their headquarters production brewery and tasting room in Milwaukie: <https://youtu.be/EH2iMsB6-rY>

@jenmomanderson

COURTESY: BREAKSIDE BREWERY - Breakside Brewery has seen astronomical growth in five years; their beer is available on draft and in 22-ounce bottles in Oregon, Seattle area, Denver, Hawaii and British Columbia. A new brewpub is set to open in Northwest Portland early next summer.